SUPERVISOR COMMENTS

Today was peaceful Sunday. We continued the trend of hot, but quiet. Officers investigated a vandalism of a home where the suspect threw rocks at the windows while the owner was out of town. They also handled two mental health calls. One was a suicidal female who we placed on a mental health hold last week and again today. The other was a homeless male, who we deal with weekly. Other than that, the only other highlights were an injured duck and an aggressive dog.

1 Damaged Property

1 Domestic Battery

2 Sick Person - Suicide

3 Juvenile Runaway

1 Public Intox

1 Found Property

SUPERVISOR COMMENTS

Today was not as busy as the previous days. During briefing, swingshift underwent training on the potential uses of a police k9, and how to assist when taking a suspect into custody with the use of the canine. Several live action exercises were done, with 2 of our decoys being in the bite suit. This was great training, as some of the officers did not realize that one of our canines could be used to extract suspects from vehicle and form buildings. After briefing, officers started to respond to calls for service. Officers ended up handling a total of 3 runaway juveniles, all from local group homes.

SHIFT: GRAVEYARD SHIFT
Acting Sgt. Roton

NUMBER OF REPORTS: 4

CATEGORIES

2 Narcotics

1 Juvenile Runaway

1 Burglary in-progress

SUPERVISOR COMMENTS

Graveyard Officers proactively scoured the city for criminal activity as usual. Fentanyl was located in the possession of a local probationer, which earned him a trip to the jail. Another Officer, while patrolling the downtown area at 4am, drove toward the sound of an alarm. He soon located two subjects pushing e-bikes worth over $3,000 down an alley next to F&M Bank on S. Center Street. As it turned out, those subjects had just burglarized Cycle Masters on E. Main Street. All stolen property was recovered and the burglars went to jail for multiple charges; a perfect example of graveyard policing at its finest.
